

THE TIMES.

Clark H. Green, Editor.

ONE DOLLAR IN ADVANCE.

GLASGOW, MO.

THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1860.

Look for the X.

A cross (thus X) immediately before the name, signifies that the time paid for has expired.

X The want of rain in every body's mouth, not to say eyes. The drought is becoming painfully protracted.

X Good for May, is at hand, radiant with spring colors, and sparkling with thoughts from the pens of our best writers.

X The last Banner announced that some thirty persons were to be baptized at Mount Meriah Church, last Sabbath: that the meeting was still progressing, with glorious prospects.

X The attention of dealers at the flourishing town of Roanoke, is called to the advertisement of Messrs. Humphreys & Barton, in the proper column. They talk well, and mean what they say.

X Messrs. Strouse & Friedsam advertise their new spring stock ready for exhibition and sale. Our lady readers will find some "perfect love" of Bonnets, Dresses, and Dress Expanders at their store.

X The slave population of Texas is increasing rapidly. Beside the large numbers brought overland from the older States, 2,682, who came by water from New Orleans, have been registered during the last three months at the port of Galveston alone.

X HOWE AN EDITOR WAS SLAUGHTERED.—On Tuesday, April 10th, Rev. J. B. Fuller united in the bonds of matrimony, C. J. Howe, Editor of the Lagrange American, and Miss Fannie Slaughter. We tender our cotemporary the congratulations of the season.

X KANSAS.—In the House, on the 11th, the bill admitting Kansas into the Union, with the Wyandott Constitution, passed by a vote of 132 to 73. The South voted against the bill, almost unanimously. Mr. Barret, of this State, voted for it, while the rest of our members voted against it.

X A Washington dispatch says, as a number of the Opposition will pair off with Democratic members who are going to Charleston and will avail themselves of this arrangement to visit their homes, it is probable that scarcely a quorum, if so many will be left here to attend to public business.

X It was a very nice discrimination of taste, or honesty, that led the recent Jefferson City Convention to partially endorse Buchanan's administration, and totally ignore Stewart's. We think Robert is about as deserving as James, and are utterly at a loss to know how the convention discriminated.

X We are under special obligations to the late Democratic Convention, for nominating our choice for Governor. We preferred Major Jackson, because we thought he could be defeated with more ease than any other prominent man; but if, in this, we should be deceived, then there is no democrat we would prefer seeing in the gubernatorial chair to him.

X RATTIQUET.—A protracted meeting which had been in progress for some eight or ten days, at the Christian Church, in this place, closed on Monday night. During the meeting, some fifteen additions were made to the Church. Elder T. M. Allen, of Boone, and Dr. Cox, the regular pastor of the Church, officiated in the pulpit.

X Mr. F. T. Mitchell is a candidate for Congress in the Fifth District. He is an old Whig—an eloquent speaker—and will make the national wish him on the other side of Jordan, before the canvass closes. He was formerly a Methodist Minister, and is well known to many of our citizens.

X The attention of Stockmen is called to the advertisement of Mr. Juna Williams' fine trotter, "Jim Turner." The demand for fast gaiters is growing, and Mr. W. is determined to take it at the flood. Jim comes of the right kind of stock, and can do the work—and as like begets like, he is just the horse for the times and tastes of the people.

X Chamberlain's fine Watches and beautiful sets of Jewelry, are going off rapidly at his reduced prices. His stock is still ample, and ladies and gentlemen who want a good time keeper, a set of Jewelry, or single pieces, should supply themselves while so favorable an opportunity presents itself. A good watch secured, and twenty-five per cent on the cost saved, are two important features.

X The Charleston Convention meets next Monday. We observe the delegates and politicians are on the move, from all sections. The Convention will be largely attended, and it will be a boisterous affair. So much blood has never met together as will assemble on Monday. The stealings of the Government have become important, and the hungry office seekers will hang about the Convention as vultures do about a dead carcass on the plains.

The Democratic Convention.

We give a synopsis of the proceedings of the recent Democratic Convention, on the opposite page, which includes the Platform of Principles.

The Convention was very well attended. Some twenty-three counties were unrepresented. The proceedings were as harmonious as might be expected, for so large a body of men, differing as they did on principles and men. In the early part of the proceedings, some disorder prevailed, and some very worthy gentlemen were "spit-tooned," who, in return gave their minds freely, calling brother delegates "jack-asses," with a prefix not very pious.

On the two leading questions that divided that body, the managers were very cautious not to bring about a collision. For instance, the Dickinson men thought when they got the Platform, (which is essentially anti-Douglas) that they had the followers of the little giant on the hip; but they were pretty shrewd, and said never a word, until the Delegates to Charleston were appointed, when it was apparent they had secured a majority for Douglas! So Dickinson got the platform, and Douglas the delegates. The Dickinson men, seeing how they were out-managed, attempted to bind the delegates by the platform, but the followers of the little giant showed their teeth so plentifully, and viciously, that the instructions were strangled ere they fairly saw the light.

The Rail Roads presented another knotty question, which the platform makers fairly and squarely shirked. The Rail Road men hoped to remedy this by nominating a known and decided Rail Road man, but in this they failed. Kennet, Sturgeon and Johnson were stuck to with some pertinacity, but Maj. Jackson had the strength, and was nominated. His exact position on the Rail Road Question is not known, for he has not been in position to develop it, for several years—and this fact, no doubt gave him strength, because his friends could represent him pro or con, as best suited their purpose. He, however, we are satisfied, will take a position, and not seek to screen himself behind such a rickety, wishy-washy resolution as the one adopted on the subject by the Convention. That resolution is not like him—or at least like he used to be.

The other planks of the platform, we presume there was no trouble about. The "leading acts of Buchanan's administration" is something like a "judicious system of Internal Improvements," and will enable the apologists of the powers that be to back and fill according to the latitude in which they may be for the time being dwelling. If the opposition act wisely, and at the proper time, the ticket and platform of the Jefferson Convention, will trouble no one after the first Monday in August.

THE CENSUS.—PAID OF DEPUTIES.—Quite a rivalry exists among applicants throughout the Western States, especially in Ohio, for the office of Deputies under United States Marshals to take the census of 1860. The pay of these deputies, by the law, is liberal, and will handsomely compensate for the time and labor required. It is fixed at two cents per head of the population, with ten cents per mile for all necessary travel, ten cents for the statistics of each farm, fifteen cents for each establishment of productive industry, and two cents for each death reported. The Marshal is prohibited from receiving any part of the fees of the assistants, under a penalty of $1,000 for each offense. The assistants have five months in which to perform their duties, and as the districts are restricted to a population not exceeding twenty thousand, and for utility, may be divided into smaller areas, ample time is given for the work to be seasonably and thoroughly done.

A Congressional Duel. Messrs. Pryor, of Virginia, and Potter, of Wisconsin, have been attracting some attention. Pryor took exceptions to some words of Potter: Potter "stood by his language," neither adding to nor detracting from, which just suited the Virginia duelist; and he dispatched a challenge to mortal combat. The Wolverine promptly accepted the challenge, and chose bowie-knives as the weapons. The Virginia gentlemen, through his seconds, declined to fight with those weapons, because they were unusual, inhuman, barbarous and vulgar! The matter thus stands, and both gentlemen have returned to their posts of duty. It is a very nice code that regards blowing a leaden ball through one's heart with powder, gentleness, and pricking the same fountain of life with steel, vulgar!

THE POST EXPRESS.—The first pony left San Francisco at 5 p. m., of the 3d of April, reached Sacramento City on the 4th, at 2:10 A. M.; left Sacramento City at 4 o'clock A. M.; Placerville at 6:50; Carson City at 10:10; arrived at Great Salt Lake City on the 8th, at 12:20; left Salt Lake City at 7:22; reached the Rocky Mountains at 1 o'clock, on the 9th; and arrived at 5 o'clock on the 13th, making the trip through from San Francisco to St. Joseph in exactly ten days.

THE PEOPLE OF SYRACUSE, N. Y. were greeted with black rain, on Thursday week. White houses and fences, and people out with clean shirts and faces, and without umbrellas, were spotted as if with ink. A chemist, who collected some of the sable liquid and examined it through a microscope, found in it a deposit of crystals, some rhomboidal, some prismatic, and many quite irregular in shape. They were mostly translucent, although numerous masses of an opaque substance were found diffused among them.

Democratic Editors and the Rail Roads.

The St. Joseph Gazette, a few days before the meeting of the Democratic Convention, took the St. Louis Republican roundly to task, not to say coarsely, for expressing its views as to what course the party ought to pursue in making nominations. On this head, says that paper

Of one thing there is no doubt we presume. We apprehend no railroad man, known as such, will be nominated. Of this the Republican may rest perfectly satisfied, and prepare accordingly to go over. The country wants no such man and the Convention will offer none. We have confidence that the action at Jefferson will be discreet and wise. A man will be selected who will approve the action of the new Legislature when it shall order the defaulting roads to a sale, which will be among its first acts.

The Gazette was specially jubilant upon hearing of Mr. Jackson's nomination, and set down his probable majority away up in the thousands. We presume the editor is posted, and if so, Mr. Jackson's position is defined. He is a sell-out man.

Third District—Whig Movement.

From the Brunswick Press.

MILAN, April 4, 1860. Mr. Editor. The time will soon arrive when the people will be called on to select state and Federal officers. The Democratic party are making their preparation for the race and marshaling their party for the battle. What are the Whigs doing? Why are not the standard bearers of the party announced? Mr. Editor I am for disputing every mote of ground, and I believe if good men are chosen, the democracy will be whipped out. In the election for congressman, I don't want to see Gen'l. Clark walk over the field alone any more. He can and ought to be beat, and I am in favor of beating him with Judge Jacob Smith of Linn county. Mr. Editor, what do you think of it? Judge Smith is an old line Whig—a good canvasser and a true man.—We are ripe here for the election, and depend on it old Sullivan will be on hand for the "National Union Whig party."

SULLIVAN.

Upon the foregoing, the Editor of the Press, remarks:—

"Judge Smith is a good Whig, and though in 1856, in common with thousands of old Line Whigs he acted with the democracy, he never belonged to them; this his recent letter in the Linn County Bulletin fully shows. We should be pleased to see the Whig press throughout this district act upon 'Sullivan's' suggestion."

There are hundreds of Whigs, just like Mr. Smith, who acted for a season with the Democratic Party, and have found it to be a humbug, instead of a National Party.—They are ready to rally around the old standard, and will come out from the democracy, just soon as one of their number, be it Judge Smith, or some one else, takes the field. Like 'Sullivan,' we want General Clark to have company in the canvass.

TICKNOR, ROBBINS & CO., St. Louis, corner of 4th street and Washington Avenue, have one of the largest stocks of clothing in the city. All who are in want of pants, drawers, shirts, hats or caps, trunks, valises, umbrellas, in fact anything necessary to make a man look like a gentleman, can find the same at Ticknor, Robbins & Co. They have also on hand a large stock of Boys' and Youths' Clothing, of all sizes and quality. Remember the place.

EXHIBITION.—The small girls of the Seminary will give an Exhibition on Saturday Evening, in the Hall above the school room, consisting of dialogues, declamations, songs, etc. The proceeds of the entertainment will be applied to the purchase of Globes, for the use of the scholars of the school. We bespeak for the girls a good audience, as it will encourage and improve them, and the pittance spent will be expended for their own benefit. Admission for gentlemen and lady, twenty-five cents.

From the Gold Mines—Arrival of the Express—$17,000 in Dust.

The Express from Denver City arrived here yesterday, bringing dates from that place to the 4th inst., and $17,000 in dust. Mining news continues cheering, and the Editor of the Denver City News, who has been on a trip through the mines, says that from eight to twenty dollars per day is the average wages of those who work six hours. New discoveries have been made on the head waters of the Arkansas, and the miners are leaving the districts in the neighborhood of Denver by hundreds, for the new mines. Great activity is reported in all the mining districts, and particularly in the quartz leads.

The citizens of Auraria have held an election, and changed the name of their city to that of Denver. Henceforth the two places will be united.

A man by the name of Jack O'Neil was shot and instantly killed in Denver, on Friday, March 30th, by John Rooker. The parties had quarreled in a billiard room several days previous, but very little is known of the origin of the quarrel. Rooker was not molested, and but little interest was taken in the affair.

DIED. On Sunday morning last, Mrs. CAROLINE T., wife of Rev. F. A. Savage, of this vicinity, in the 30th year of her age.

In Paris, on the 16th, Mrs. MARY MANUEL, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Marr, of this place.
